FROM THE PRESIDENT

Design Impacts Lives!

AM HONORED TO BE YOUR NEW ASID

Arizona North Chapter President for 2018-2019. I accept it with enthusiasm, as well as butterflies in my stomach. I hope that you all know to reach out to me directly with concerns, questions, or suggestions, and especially if you want to volunteer!

To introduce myself, I am an interior designer with my own company focusing on residential clients. I am happily married to my husband, Clifford Strang (Skip). We moved to the Phoenix area 14 years ago from Ohio and love living here in the Valley. Together, we have a blended family of 7 adult children! We have six precious grandchildren as well.

This year, chapter events will continue to focus on the needs of the membership with well-planned programming for experienced designers, emerging professionals, and students. We will again offer Interior Designer for Hire in 2019, a fundraiser from February through April each year. Funds raised support student scholarships and chapter educational programming. Please volunteer a bit of your time this next year. Four, six, or even eight hours will really help the chapter and might even help you grow your business!

Before I close, I want to send a shout out to all of our industry partners and sponsors. We love you and couldn't do this without you! I'm looking forward to seeing everyone at the next chapter meeting.

All my best,

AMY STRANG, Allied ASID

LIKE INTERIOR DESIGNERS, WE EDITORS ARE BARRAGED BY TREND NEWS.

Every day we receive hundreds of messages touting the latest, greatest, and not-to-be-missed cutting edge products, innovations, ideas and studies. Using our collective experience, we decipher which ones are important, relevant, statistically sound and worth our time and attention. Trends that are impactful—not just interesting—are quickly parsed from the pack. Three that made the cut are population-centric: The growth, graying and diversification of Valley residents are topics we're keeping our eye on.

Population growth in Maricopa county is well substantiated and its effects are likewise evident. Housing starts, home values and remodeling numbers continue to go grow upward. Older neighborhoods are seeing renewal, with existing homes being upgraded or demolished and replaced by new ones. Multi-family dwellings—often with vertical, multi-storied floor plans—are popping up both in established and recently developed areas. High-rise apartments—a good number with equally lofty price tags—are changing the look of Phoenix and Scottsdale while attracting a variety of demographics.

The graying of America's population is also happening in the Southwest. Baby boomers are moving into their late 50s to early 70s; the oldest millennials are nearing 40. As these two influential groups age, they want different things. Boomers are looking for smaller residences that offer turn-key living; millennials are drawn to options with lots of amenities and community life. The trend of single millennials leading home buying for their age group that's happening in other parts of the country may also take root here.

Diversification within the Valley's population is inherently tied to people from other parts of the state, country and world moving here. As major companies see Phoenix as a good place to base their work force, as Americans migrate from northern locations to southern ones and as other cities are less attractive due to escalating cost-of-living, we will benefit from transplants adopting the desert. Here at the magazine, we editors see homes created with specific needs and tastes that are culturally based and expect this design diversification to continue.

As with all trends, there are exceptions. While these three population topics aren't iron-clad, they are pervasive. Like a slow-moving storm that first appears, then rumbles with anticipation, then finally lets loose overhead, these population trends are happening and it's best for all of us to acknowledge and embrace them. Our editorial direction and plans reflect this understanding—we feature a diverse, inclusive and always changing mix of home and garden design. Additionally, we work to help solve some of the challenges these trends bring. From our issue that focused on the future of the Southwest home to innovations in high-tech construction to highlighting today's brightest leaders in residential design, we take a positive, forward-looking approach to our subjects.

We count on interior designers to be our partners on this important journey. Your insights to clients' needs, marketplace advancements and regional adaptation are invaluable to us and to our readers. Whether we meet and talk at one of your projects, at an industry function or over a catch-up coffee, your professional viewpoint is always welcomed and appreciated. Please don't hesitate to reach out to me or to any other staff member at editor@phgmag.com.

A minimalist language that redefines the norms of technology, craftsmanship, and style.

EMCEE Recognition

ROLAND ARNOLD, (pictured left) has been an Industry Partner of our chapter since 1984. Our chapter was a leader nationally in bringing the industry side of design into the fold, always harking back to the motto of “A designer is only as good as his or her resource library.” Roland has a degree in design and color theory. He has never been in private practice and never wanted to be. He has spent his entire professional career with Arizona Tile.

KASIM ASLAM is, in his own words, a failed actor turned entrepreneur, speaker, and author. He is married to Suzanne and has two adorable boys, Sammy and Ronan. He is on the Board of Directors for Arts InterFace, an international nonprofit with the mission of bringing arts education to children around the world. His passions are children, education, entrepreneurialism, globalization, and specific environmental causes. His book, The 7 Critical Principles of Effective Digital Marketing, is an international bestseller and Amazon’s #1 bestseller.

DESIGNER OF DISTINCTION Award

This unique award is not a design award. As defined by our chapter, the Designer of Distinction Award “honors a professional member who has performed services not only within the organization, but has also, as a member of the profession, extended their expertise, knowledge, and human worth to their community.”

LYNNE BEYER, Allied ASID, is honored as a designer who has volunteered many times to help our chapter with fundraising, speaking at events, and mentoring the future of our chapter. Lynne has been published locally, regionally and nationally and contributes to our community beyond the reaches of our chapter.

ENHANCEMENT OF THE ARTS Award

The Arizona Art Alliance received this award in recognition of one of their programs, The Art of Healing, which focuses on veterans suffering/recovering from post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), and traumatic brain injury (TBI). The founder of The Arizona Art Alliance, JOHN FONTANA (pictured), has developed an effective therapeutic art program series that was coordinated with veteran outreach organizations. The goal is to help lower the suicide rate for veterans. Additional programs offered benefit students of all ages and levels of ability, including veterans, special-needs individuals, senior citizens, life-care residents, those suffering from dementia, and at-risk youth. After John's moving account of their work, John received a standing ovation.

QUALITY OF LIFE Award

St. Mary's Food Bank received this award in recognition of their employees and volunteers who embody the true spirit of giving. They help people in all walks of life in so many ways through their programs. Community Kitchen teaches people how to cook. The Kids Café provides food to children in schools all over Arizona who may not get food at home. St. Mary's Food Bank also provides food assistance to the elderly to ensure they get the nutrition they need. Accepting on behalf of St. Mary's Food Bank is Lisa Notaro.

INDUSTRY PARTNER OF THE YEAR Award

ROLAND ARNOLD, was not only one of our emcees this year, Roland also received Industry Partner of the Year! Awarded to an individual Industry Partner, this award recognizes a person who impacts our interior design community in a positive way, who has been dedicated to the success of our chapter over a period of time, and has been committed to volunteering when asked. Roland has been a member of our chapter for many, many years, has been a board member, committee chair, committee member, and emcee of our awards for numerous years. In addition to Roland's sense of humor, often noted at our awards, he is fashionable and a joy for designers to work with.
